NOTABLE NPCS

01

MARKUS "SARGE" HEINLEIN

Skilled Corporate Security Agent

Infamous war vet brought in by APX to put an end to the insurgency and "clean up their mess". A mercenary to the core, he will remain loyal to the corps as long as they keep the creds flowing.

02

ELI

Insurgency Leader

Charismatic synthetic, stepped in as a leader after their predecessor was killed during the attack. It's said they have sole access to a DATABASE with valuable information regarding the incident.

03

OLD FINN

Skilled Hustler

Has been around since forever, doing odd jobs here and there. Mostly known for being a complete crook. No one really trusts him, but there are some things only Old Finn can get for you—for a price.

04

JANE DOE

[INSUFFICIENT DATA]

Amnesic found in the jungle rim a couple of days ago with no ID or matching biometrics. Shows knowledge and interest in learning more about the PRDTR's nature and behavioral patterns.

FACTIONS

INSURGENTS dared to overthrow their corporate overlords by attacking the APX facility. Since the incident, they have been hiding in the jungle rim, attempting to regroup. Easy prey for the PRDTR.

CORPORATE SECURITY agents brought in to restore order with their high-grade gear and training. Outnumbered and slowly being picked off one by one, they would have already taken off and blown the site from orbit if not for Sarge Heinlein's obstinance.

SCAVENGERS sometimes work for Corp Sec, but mostly are out for themselves. Since the incident, large numbers have been seen in the newly formed jungle, attempting to "get theirs" from the leftover equipment and those unlucky enough to get in their way.

CYBER PUNK

Orbital, come in!

There's been an incident at Biosphere-5. A skirmish between Insurgents and Corporate Security resulted in the destruction of an APX facility and security measures have now been compromised.

The experiments have escaped into the former agro-botanical zone, which has exploded with anomalous vegetation and fauna. We're getting reports of screeching noises from the newly risen jungle. My people are convinced a demon is hunting us, picking us off one by one.

The company's VIP just fled with the western pad's last dropships, leaving us behind with their Corp Sec thugs. We've been under duress for eight days and we're running out of supplies.

This is our last transmission. We're going to make a run towards the old eastern pad, hoping to find a dropship to get the hell out of here. Between Corp Sec, the Insurgents, and this "Jungle Demon," I say our odds are about one in a thousand...

Wish us luck. Over and out.

PRDTR is a setting for CBR+PNK where Runners must navigate the collapse of a lunar habitat. Choosing their allegiance among factions, they will go on risky runs trying to unearth and profit from the secrets of Biosphere-5—all while keeping an eye out for the unrelenting, enigmatic hunter that is slaughtering survivors indiscriminately.

Designed for 1-2 sessions, featuring new teamwork rules and a fully fleshed-out setting with story hooks, locations, and NPCs—everything you need to run a sci-fi action survival thriller.

CONTENT WARNING LARGE-SCALE DISASTER, CLASS CONFLICT, VIOLENCE, MURDER.

BECAUSE OF ITS THEMES, IT IS RECOMMENDED FOR MATURE PLAYERS, WITH MUTUAL TRUST AND SAFETY TOOLS IN PLACE (E.G. THE X-CARD, LINES & VEILS AND OPEN DOOR).

WRITTEN & LAYOUTED BY EMANOEL MELO EDITED & PROOF-READ BY RAY CHOU COVER BY LUIS MELO
INSPIRED BY THE FILMS PREDATOR, FIREBASE, ANNIHILATION & TOTAL RECALL
ADDITIONAL ART BASED ON PHOTOS BY DERICK DAILY, JIM FLORES, MARIA LUPAN & TYLER NIX ON UNSPLASH

THE CABINET OF CURIOSITIES MYTHOPOEIA

CBR+PNK CREATED BY EMANOEL MELO, PUBLISHED BY MYTHOPOEIA
CABINETOFCURIOSITIES.GAMES / MYTH.WORKS

SETTING UP

Read the back-panel text out loud to set the mood.

As a group, choose the Operator—the person behind the run—from the Notable NPCs list (panel 3) or create your own. Players then proceed to choose an OBJECTIVE before filing their runners.

Objectives

A〉 Escort six other survivors to the dropship on the Eastern Launchpad. If only one of them survives, the Objective is compromised (− to Angle Rolls) but not entirely lost. Why are they important?

GM: This Objective requires the Transport Engagement Plan. Start off with the Runners approaching a CORP SEC CHECKPOINT on the lookout for the insurrectionist leader, overseen by Sarge Heinlein himself—or—caught off-guard by an AMBUSH of beaten, angry insurgents looking for supplies or a way out.

B〉 Collect a sample of anomalous material from the derelict APX facility, then bring it to a pickup point. What's dangerous about carrying this unnatural specimen through?

GM: They start off being chased by SOMETHING IN THE WATER through a flooded, narrow, and disturbingly tall service tunnel—or—TRAPPED inside one of the labs, the path ahead overwhelmed by a swarm of plant-insect hybrids.

C〉 Rescue Eli from the Scavengers before they turn them in to Corp Sec, then assist the synth with uploading the DATABASE to an info broker on the orbital station. What is the last thing Eli has to offer for the cause but wouldn't give up easily?

GM: Runners start off sneaking in—or—blasting their way out of the BOOBY-TRAPPED Scavenger hideout.

Their choice of Engagement Plan and its details (route, point of entrance, etc.) will influence what the provided starting situations look like. The GM must be prepared to adapt.

SYNERGY

Synergy is a crew resource any Runner can tap into, representing their ability to collaborate and work together through a crisis.

〉 Each Runner begins with ◆◆ already marked, as they have been dealing with the incident's fallout for a while now.

〉 The team begins with ✧ per Runner. Keep track of it using a piece of paper, tokens, or dice, visible to all participants.

Players can describe how the whole team coordinates their abilities to exceed their potential. By doing so, they can spend ✧ instead of individually taking ◆ when Assisting, Leading, and Resisting from Protect actions, as long as there is no conflict with a team goal.

RECOVER: When the characters bolster their teamwork skills while TAKING A BREATHER—practicing for the next challenge, sharing their past experiences, etc.—restore all ✧ in addition to the usual benefit gained from the roll.

SETTING

BIOSPHERE-5 HABITAT

- A self-contained domed megahabitat built inside a crater on Ganymede with its own soil, microclimate, agro-botanical zone, solar farm, water desalination and treatment station, housing, and two launchpads for supply and transport ships.
- The colony was funded by a consortium between Koloss Heavy Industries and APX, a leader in the paramilitary industry. On paper, the habitat is intended to be a major provider of water and agriculture for the outer colonies.
- Soon after the colony was established, a so-called "insurgency" arose out of discontent over prolonged working periods in poor conditions, recurrent power shortages, and the consortium's indifference to the weird mutations affecting some of the workers.
- Nearly eight days ago, tensions were high when the Insurgency raided an off-the-record APX facility rumored to be draining most of the habitat's power to conduct weird experiments. Corp Sec responded with full force, and the conflict ended with the facility destroyed and the insurgent leader dead.

POST-INCIDENT STATE

- The incident at the APX underground facility—reportedly a complex of experimental labs—released a highly disruptive anomalous energy.
- In the aftermath, part of the agro-botanical zone transmuted to a dense jungle-like environment. Some of the specimens analyzed showed extraneous properties or unsettling features.
- Glitches in the microclimate and water treatment system led to large flooded areas and humid heat waves.
- Corp Sec seized control of all external comms via the master antenna, which also mildly scrambles internal signals.
- Someone/thing went on a killing spree across the habitat.

HAZARDS / TROUBLE

Introduce these to bring Biosphere-5 to life while stirring things up.

- A flare goes up in the distance. Screams follow.
- Someone under the attack of thick strangling vines.
- Scavengers silently enjoying luminescent fumes.
- A recently crashed Corp Sec truck. A few agents approach.
- A glitchy service robot dismantling something important.
- A field of purple fungi. Their spores do weird things to organics.
- Dreadful evidence of the PRDTR's killing—e.g. bloodied cyberware left hanging on cables; distant shrieks, neither animal nor mechanical; missing NPCs, etc.

NAVIGATION NODES

SAFE ROUTE | BLOCKED | TUNNEL | CHECKPOINT

SELKET HEIGHTS
The overcrowded building complex where most of the civilians were relocated to after things went awry. Supplies are low and dwindling. Corp Sec oversees the refugees and carries out random raids in search of insurgents.

CORP SEC BASE OF OPERATIONS
Impromptu base built near the master antenna, taking advantage of the higher terrain. Shelter is mostly provided by Smart tents and simple 3d printed structures. Hound drone units patrol the area.
Garage parks a couple of armored trucks and a few tactical motorcycles.

\CONTROL STATION
Small high-security building where the master antenna sits on.

MEAT LAB
Small facility providing the synthetic meat that has been harshly rationed by Corp Sec.

APX FACILITY [UNDERGROUND]
The entrance is a heavily guarded deep shaft.
Now a derelict complex with overgrown strange flora. Most of the rooms and equipment were destroyed during the conflict, but a few reinforced doors remain locked.

EASTERN LAUNCHPAD
Mostly underground platforms mainly accessed by elevators.
Ships take off from vacuum sealed hangars leading out of the crater's rim. Only one dropship is present, currently recharging its fuel cells.

AGRICULTURE CENTER
Habitat's main food provider. Most of its farms and sheds were exposed to the weird radiation from the incident, causing a shortage.

\LAB 19A
The door for Lab 19A is smashed shut from the inside. At its center, a circular platform with all manner of cables coming in and out, as well as pieces of some kind of paramilitary armor. Floor and walls are still covered by human blood and some kind of iridescent, unidentifiable organic matter.

FLOODED BASE
The safest floors were mostly emptied by scavengers, but some hard to access rooms may have loads of high-grade gear.

SYSTEM

PROGRESS TRACKS

MAYHEM

With the conflict heating up, the anomalies resulting from the incident and systemic failures, the habitat becomes increasingly more inhospitable by the hour. Advance this track as the Runners progress towards their end goal. Once the track fills, Biosphere-5 is hit by a staggering event. E.g.:

- Strange flora and funga bloom across the habitat. Disease and violent mutations ramp up among survivors.
- Reinforcements arrive and Corp Sec finally takes over.
- Acid rain starts to pour, compromising crucial structures.
- A giant timer shows up in the skydome counting down 15 min.

SLAUGHTER

Advance one as the Runners progress towards their end goal. When they use an Augment or High-grade gear, they reveal their position to the PRDTR—beside ticking a segment, make a Hunting move:

Wear the prey down before the slaughter by baiting them to use resources; disrupting formation; inciting dread; taking out strays and the weak first;

Once the track fills, the hunter exposes themselves to strike a character—PC or otherwise. They will retreat and restart the track after successfully picking someone off or getting hurt.

They'll keep doing this until all characters are weakened enough or there is only one left. At that point, PRDTR FIGHTS THEM TO DEATH.

APX™ PRDTR

SKILLED COMBATANT

The prototype of a PRDTR powersuit developed secretly by APX in Lab 19A. Something during the incident caused the PRDTR to meld both the adaptive AI and [REDACTED] energy powering it into a being with an instinct for hunting high-threat individuals.

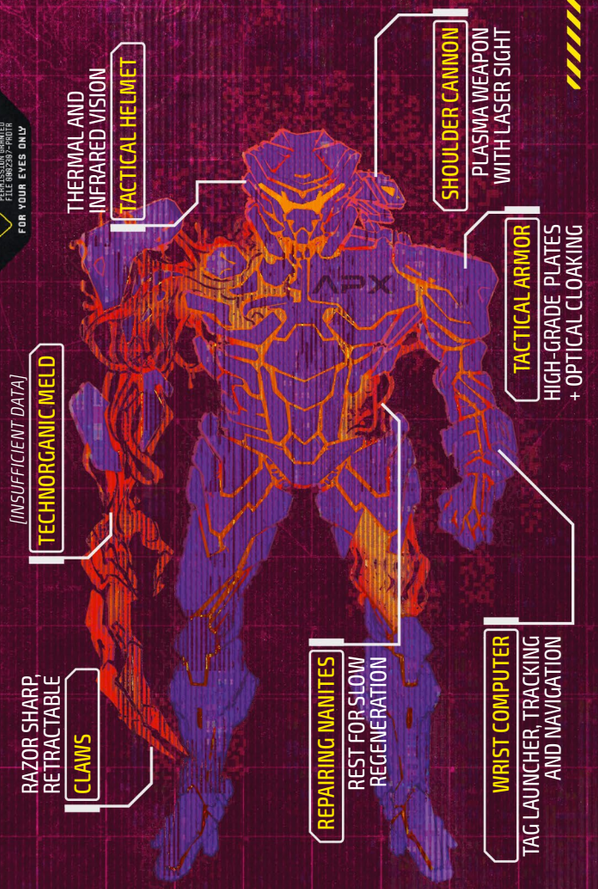
LAST RESORT

PERMISSION GRANTED FILE 0892B-PRDTR FOR YOUR EYES ONLY



OTHERWORLDLY Those aware of their presence, even if it's not fully revealed, will either run away or be paralyzed with dread (can be Resisted).

LAST RESORT On a 10-sec countdown, unleashes all their remaining energy, detonating themselves and everything else within a 500m blast radius.